

KCK Board of Education Honors Joyce Wade as Employee of the Month

The Kansas City, Kansas Board of Education honored Joyce Wade, attendance secretary at Eisenhower Middle School, as Employee of the Month at their meeting on November 13. She is actually an October Employee of the Month, but could not attend the October meeting to be recognized.

Part of her nomination stated, “Joyce Wade brings new meaning to courteous. She also shows that she really cares for the children and enjoys helping people. It shows in her face and in her words. When I call the school to take care of something, she has never given me attitude nor has she treated me as if I was irritating her . . . She can teach a whole lot of people in Kansas some mannerisms that she has and it would make Kansas a better place . . . She deserves a commendation.”
